SCHOOL INFORMATION

JTM Training Group has been in operation since 1998. Since then has set the standard for US Military Special Operations requirements regarding advanced weapons training and battlefield medicine. For over 10 years, JTM limited its course attendance to only a select group of military teams.

Beginning in May 2008, course attendance is now offered to non-Special Operations individuals with a desire to learn tools and techniques that have been proven on the battlefield. The training staff, location and advanced training curriculum remain focused on instructing the necessary basic skills, and then pushing students to their mental and physical limits.

JTM is not a “training factory”, meaning that our courses are relatively small. This allows JTM instructors to establish the individual needs of each student, improving upon their weaknesses and exploiting their strengths.

SCHOOL INFORMATION

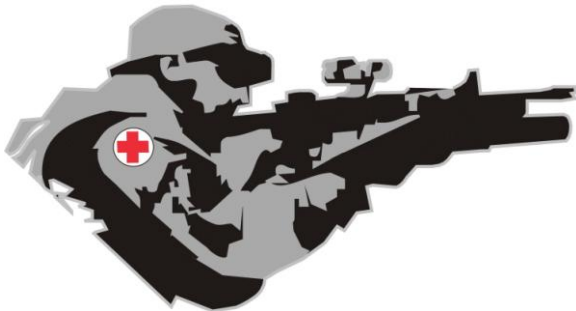

SUCCESSFUL COURSE COMPLETION: This is a 45+ contact hour school. Contact hours = Actual instruction time in the classroom and on the range. It does not include travel between lodging and training site, breaks, meals and clean-up. 100% attendance is mandatory for successful school completion. The school should be considered a full-time endeavor. It is unreasonable to expect successful completion if engaged in any additional activities during the school term.

Gear/Weapons/Ammunition: JTM provides a secure storage space for student weapons, ammunition and pro-gear that is brought to the school.

Student Attire: During all classroom sessions, relaxed business attire is recommended. For the firing range / field environment, please bring uniforms & footwear appropriate for a desert climate.

Food/Lunches: Approximately 30 minutes will be given each day to eat lunch in the training building. Student refrigerators and microwaves are available for use. Sodas, sports drinks & bottled water are available for purchase.

Administrative needs: JTM must receive a completed application from each student a minimum 7 days prior to class start date.
